

CBH CUSTOMERS TO SEE SIGNIFICANT VALUE FROM COGNOS ACQUISITION OF CELEQUEST

Irvine, Calif. – February 12, 2007 –CBH, a leading Performance Management consulting firm, today announced that it anticipates customers will see significant value from the Cognos acquisition of Celequest. As Cognos' top performing partner in North America and a strategic partner of Celequest, CBH is uniquely positioned to offer customers the full range of performance management solutions available from the combined companies.

"As part of Cognos, Celequest will be able to extend its vision of providing customers with instant visibility into their business operations. Celequest's operational dashboards together with Cognos 8 Business Intelligence delivers a more complete view of enterprise information", said Diaz Nesamoney, vice president and general manager, Cognos On Demand. "Key partners such as CBH who have expertise in both the Celequest and Cognos offerings can help customers achieve an unprecedented level of performance management."

"Our mission is to accelerate the benefits of performance improvement solutions for the world's leading organizations," said Joe Baird, Chief Executive Officer of CBH. "Celequest's real-time architecture and self-service dashboards enable broad performance monitoring and immediate response to changing business conditions. The combination of Celequest's offering with the depth of Cognos solutions we already offer, means CBH can add even more value to our customers. We also believe this will accelerate the deployment of Performance Management appliances, thus lowering the IT impact and cost of our solutions."

Celequest's operational dashboards are powered by the industry's most advanced, in-memory streaming technology to enable continuous delivery of real-time information. Celequest also offers the easiest self-service dashboard creation and customization, speeding the delivery of personalized information. Now, in addition to the historical and strategic dashboards within Cognos 8 Business Intelligence, customers can build real-time operational dashboards. The result is a comprehensive view of information for better decision-making and improved performance management.
